Privacy policy: There is no tracking of normal website visitors to this website. No cookies or other technologies such as e-tags are issued for such purposes. The servers may collect data from visitors such as IP address, device information, etc., this data is part of the functionality of a server and not used for tracking or marketing purposes. Relevant data protection acts and regulations including GDPR are complied with. The technical details of same shall be provided to the customer before purchase. Customers and potential customers' data shall not be used for direct marketing purposes without prior consent, nor shared with third parties save for what is required by law. If any party sends any communication, written, verbal, or otherwise, via any method, this data may be stored until such time as is no longer required for any purpose relevant to business, or, the maximum time allowed by law, whichever the lesser. Any parties that send data are entitled to access whatever data are held on them, or to correct it to update accuracy and truthfulness, or to request its deletion, subject to security and verification checks on the identity of the party making the request. Access requests to data are subject to the maximum specified fee (e.g. €6.35). This fee is charged to cover labour costs in extracting and preparing data for delivery. Data requested, if it is present, shall be delivered by digital download at the time of payment. Sections of legislation pertaining to refunds (because of data not present) would in this case not be relevant, as it is an instant transaction: data for payment. Granting of such access requests is limited to only what is required by Irish law. All data is stored and treated securely, including in transit, employing security best practices such as encryption. This privacy policy may change from time to time so please check back to the website to read a copy of the updated privacy policy. If you have any concerns about this privacy policy or any concerns in general, please contact the trader whose details are printed above.
